

A List Of Services That May Need To Be Contacted Includes¹:

- Australian Taxation Office
- Banks, building societies, credit unions, mortgage provider, superannuation fund
- Business licenses
- Centrelink (if the deceased was receiving a social security payment)
- Clubs and organisations
- Electricity and gas suppliers (to finalise accounts)
- Employers
- Executor of the will/estate
- Department of Veteran Affairs (if the deceased was an ex-serviceman)
- Hire purchase companies
- Insurers
- Landlords, Real Estate Rental Property Manager
- Local authorities (councils, state authorities)
- Medicare (13 2011) and any private Health Benefits Fund
- Post Office
- Professional association or trade union
- Queensland Electoral Commission (local, state and federal government)
- Queensland Transport (to cancel driver's licence and car registration)
- Residential Tenancies Authority (if the deceased person had been renting)
- Telephone company
- Tertiary education institution

¹ Centrelink. (2011). Needing help after someone has died? Retrieved from <http://www.eluvia.com.au/content/apps/assetlibrary/MjIONTA4OTMw0/needing-help-after-someone-has-died-centrelink-guide.pdf>